

Those Guys in the Band formed in Tupelo Mississippi in 1998 in part to preserve and Promote the Big Band sounds of swing and jazz of the modern era of popular music. Playing the songs of Ellington, Basie, Gershwin and many other styles of music, including Dixieland, Those Guys in the Band is sure to please with a variety of musical favorites.

Transitioning to digital music has enabled this group to get that big band sound from a smaller ensemble of 4 horn players. TGiB musicians play multiple instruments from clarinet to sax to brass, giving the band added versatility. Those Guys in the Band founder and leader, Calvin White, plays clarinet, tenor and baritone sax, and produces the band-in-the-computer rhythm tracks which provide the vital foundation for the band's great sound. Dan Davis plays alto and tenor saxes with TGiB. Steve Hurt, originally from the Volunteer state, is on trombone. On trumpet and bari sax, Keith Lindsey, a native of McKenzie, has remained active in music since his days at MHS. Welcome Tupelo's swinging band to the Nights on Broadway on May 30, 2015 !
